Beaumont Library Expands Outreach As Bookmobile Service Begins This Month

by Luren Dickinson, Director

Beaumont Library District is expanding its bookmobile program from preschool outreach to service for families starting this month through a $35,000 LSTA grant targeting the underserved Fairway Canyon area.

The library's 2007 Dodge Sprinter has been re-wrapped with a book-themed design and re-branded from the "Ready to Read" van to the Beaumont Library District "Bookmobile" to highlight the change. The new tagline: "Beaumont Library District. . .growing with you!" is now prominently displayed along with the Library's new logo.

Another outside improvement made to the vehicle has been the addition of an awning to provide shade for users on sunny days. On the inside, the generator was restored so that air conditioning can be used during stops on hot days. Also, a swivel passenger seat was added to allow staff to set up a check out desk to better serve the public.

The bookmobile collection has been expanded, as well. There are still a good number of materials for preschoolers, but now a large assortment of books and DVDS have been added for children, teens, and adults.

Beaumont Library is continuing to provide storytime programs, along with the new bookmobile service, at the Chatigny and Noble Creek community centers and the Petco store at Beaumont Marketplace. The newest stop, at Trevino Park in Fairway Canyon, is a major focus of the grant project.

While the vast majority of district residents can reach the library's only facility within a three-mile drive or less, those south of Interstate 10 are five to seven miles away. This includes the completely built-out Tournament Hills gated community and the still-growing, ungated Fairway Canyon development. Both are family-friendly locations that will account for 20% of the district population when housing development is completed. Beaumont Library District already serves 84,000 residents within a 60 square mile area of California's fastest growing region.

With its plans for a proposed renovation of the current 12,000 square foot library and an addition of another 28,000 square feet, Beaumont Library will be. . .growing with you!

Help Us Find Our Oldest Patron or the Person Who Has Used Beaumont Library the Longest!

Do you know someone who has been using Beaumont Library for a long time? If so, we would like to hear from that person.

Library staff members know of one person who came to the area as a young person in the 1960s and has been using the library ever since.

There is also a library patron who is 93 years young and comes in regularly to check out books.

If you can top either of those, we would like to hear from you!
